

Over the years, BCASW's Perspectives magazine has featured a number of thought-provoking ethics articles. In particular, the "Tough Choices" column outlines ethical dilemmas in practice. Consider using these materials as resources in a discussion group, to write a reflection piece, or use in consultation with peers.

Perspectives Ethics Articles

September 2011

Must I Un-Friend Facebook? Exploring the ethics of social media

Lisa Kays, Page 4

Collective Ethics as a Path to Resisting 'Burnout' in Counselling

Vikki Reynolds, page 6

January 2011

Self-Care for Social Workers: A precious commodity, an ethical imperative

Lynda Monk, page 4

September 2010

Abandonment or Autonomy: Social workers perform 'ethical jazz' to balance both autonomy and care

Louise Holland, page 6

December 2007

Difference-Centered Social Work Ethics: It stands mainstream assumptions of ethics on its head

Mehmoona Moosa-Mitha, page 16

September 2007

Tough Choices - Giving Advice to Family and Friends: What could be more normal — or more dangerous?

Bill Engleson, page 20

March 2007

Tough Choices - Elderly, Alcoholic and Alone: Can I protect my client from her harmful behaviours?

Mary Petty & Leah Douglas, page 20

September 2006 (Special Issue on Ethical Practice)

The Power of Ethical Social Work Practice

Christina McLennan, Dawn Hemingway, page 5

The Dance between Autonomy and Abandonment

Louise Holland, page 6

Ethical Considerations in Inter-professional Practice: Maintaining our Ethical Balance on the Health Care Team

Katrina Ludwig, page 10

Drawing the Line: Ethical Considerations in Research with Abused Women

Ramona Alaggia, page 15

Tough Choices - Balancing Trust with Safety: Where's the Line in Breaking Confidentiality?

Bill Engleson, page 16

March 2006

Tough Choices - The Challenges of Leadership: When Budget Cuts Cut into What's Right

Judith Globerman; Michael Crawford (editor), page 16

November 2005

Tough Choices -How Close is too Close? When to Report a Colleague's Inappropriate Behaviour

Bill Engleson; Michael Crawford (editor), page 20

September 2005

Tough Choices - Sorting Out the Way of Counselling: Against Your Better Judgement

Marianne Boak, Heather Cooke, and Anais Hamann; Michael Crawford (editor), page 16

March 2005

Tough Choices - Taking steps to protect children isn't always clear: Aboriginal agencies must honour cultural values

Joanne Armstrong, Ava Dean, & Gord Bruyere; Michael Crawford (editor), page 16

Winter 2004

Tough Choices - What if you are attracted to the relative of a client? Your professional ethics still apply, if your actions will affect your client

Stuart Alcock; Michael Crawford (editor), page 24

Spring 2004

Tough Choices - Can you be accused of wrongly influencing a will? When you deal with elderly clients you are also dealing with their families

Alison Leaney; Michael Crawford (editor), page 24

Autumn 2003

Tough Choices - Pushing the limits of client advocacy: What if your clients plan a criminal act as a way to make a point?

Charmaine Spencer; Michael Crawford (editor), page 24

Spring 2003

Tough Choices - The challenge of supporting community standards: By supporting community self-governance we support individuals

Richard Vedan; Michael Crawford (editor), page 24

Perspectives is a publication of the British Columbia Association of Social Workers

Publication occurs three times a year. Articles up to 1,500 words will be considered, but publication is not guaranteed and copy may be edited to fit the space available, or for legal or other reasons. The views expressed in articles published in Perspectives are not necessarily those of the BCASW or the Editorial Committee. For reprint permissions and back copies, please contact the BCASW office. Policies and guidelines for placing advertising and inserts in Perspectives can be obtained from BCASW's website or by emailing BCASW.

Exclusion of Liability: Perspectives Tough Choices column

This column is intended to stimulate thinking and critical analysis and to encourage a free exchange of competing views about ethical problems encountered in social work. The names of those who submit an ethical dilemma are not published and identifying information is modified to ensure confidentiality. The analysis provided is not offered as legal or professional advice, nor is it intended in any way to be relied upon as a practice prescription to be followed in similar situations. The statements and opinions expressed herein are those of the individual author and not those of the Editorial Committee of Perspectives or BCASW. Any reliance upon this analysis shall be at the user's own risk, without any legal recourse to the author or the Association for any claim, whether in negligent misrepresentation, or otherwise. Practitioners should seek specific advice from colleagues on specific factual circumstances and, where appropriate, consult with legal counsel or the body that regulates standards of practice. Questions and comments about this column, and ethical dilemmas may be sent in confidence to Dianne Heath c/o Perspectives or to: bcasw@bcasw.org